LIFE WAS GOOD

He never sote fortune nor fame,
Love of life, was his only claim.
In God's World, he stood firm and held his place,
He loved the feel of the wind and rain upon his face.

With a sense of wit, twinkles and smiles,
He blended them together, to face lifes trials.
Whomever he met, was soon his friend,
On his faith and trust, you could always depend.

He enjoyed the little folks close around,
His love for them, would warmly abound.
His hertiage was of humble pride,
Honored by a loving family, near his side.

Trials and sorrows, were often his to bear,
But he carried them well, and did his share.
Truly he was a man among men,
The kind you find only now and then.

As, his lifes story, is now unfurled,
Three sons are his legacy, to a future world.
Sons who he guided, down a pathway straight,
With help and love of a faithful mate.

Now lifes book has closed its pages,
He has gone to dwell with the eternal ages.
And in the distance, we might hear him say,
" Life was good, I wanted it that way."
